As we move forward to achieve Company objectives and operate within this Code of Conduct, we will be successful as individuals and as a corporation. Your compliance with this Code of Conduct will assure that Aviat Networks remains a company in which all employees can take pride in the way we work together.

PRESIDENT AND CEO

1 Compliance With Laws and Regulations

Compliance With Laws and Regulations

Aviat Networks, Inc., and its subsidiaries world-wide (hereinafter referred to as “Aviat Networks” or the “Company”) will adhere to the highest legal, moral, and ethical standards in its relationships with its employees, customers, competitors, partners, government, media, business colleagues, suppliers, and the public. To maintain its reputation for integrity, the employees of Aviat Networks must act responsibly, fairly, openly and honestly in all business matters. The following represents summaries of Aviat Networks’ Business Conduct Policies applicable to all directors and employees.

In addition to this document, Aviat Networks has published a Financial Code of Ethics. As Aviat Networks is a publicly traded company, it is extremely important that it prepare accurate financial reports and that its filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission and other public disclosures be timely and contain accurate and complete disclosure of required matters. The Financial Code of Ethics applies to the Company’s Directors, officers, and all employees of Aviat Networks. This Financial Code of Ethics is designed to assure that Aviat Networks acts with honesty and integrity in all financial dealings and provides full, complete and accurate disclosure to its shareowners in its public filings and disclosures as required by law. The Company views violations of this code as a severe disciplinary matter. A copy of the Financial Code of Ethics is attached as Appendix A.

As a U.S. publicly traded company, Aviat Networks is governed by and required to comply with U.S. federal legislation. In addition, Aviat Networks will conduct all its activities in compliance with all applicable national, state and local laws, regulations and judicial decrees wherever it conducts business around the world. At no time will employees take any action on behalf of the Company that they know, or reasonably should know, violates any law or regulation. The Company’s goal is for each employee to act in a manner utilizing good judgment, high ethical standards and honesty in the employee’s business dealings on behalf of the Company.

No Code of Conduct can cover all circumstances or anticipate every situation resulting in unethical conduct. Employees encountering situations not addressed specifically by this Code of Conduct should apply its overall philosophy, good judgment, and concepts to the situation, along with reference to specific Company policies on the subject in question. If a question still exists after doing so, the particular circumstances should be reviewed with the employee’s supervisor, the business ethics leader, a member of senior management, the Legal Department or Human Resources (see also Section 5 – Reporting Suspected Violations of the Code of Company Policies).

Ethical Conduct

Ethical Conduct

7. Managers set an example for other employees and are often responsible for directing the actions of others. Every manager and supervisor are expected to take necessary actions to ensure compliance with this Code, to provide guidance and assist employees in resolving questions concerning the Code and to permit employees to express any concerns regarding compliance with this Code. No one has the authority to order another employee to act contrary to this Code.

As an Aviat Networks employee you have a responsibility to provide and support a culture that values integrity and ethical conduct.

Ethical Conduct

B. BUSINESS PRACTICES

Why does it matter?

It is Aviat Networks' policy to deal with its employees, customers, business associates, partners, suppliers, competitors and the governments of all jurisdictions in which it operates in a straightforward and honest manner.

1. Conduct with Employees

Aviat Networks believes its employees are a valuable resource, and our goal is for every employee to be personally involved and share in the Company's success. Aviat Networks shall strive to treat all employees honestly and fairly in all aspects of the employer-employee relationship.

2. Conduct with Customers

Serving customers is the focal point of our business. Exceeding customer expectations is the best way to ensure business success. It is the policy of Aviat Networks to work with customers to understand and anticipate their needs, identify and remove obstacles customers may perceive when doing business with our Company, and to respond promptly and courteously to customer inquiries and requests.

What does it mean for me?

In addition, employees of Aviat Networks are to accurately represent our products and services in marketing, advertising and sales efforts. Aviat Networks will strive to provide products and services of the highest quality and continuously improve quality.

3. Conduct in the Community and Environmental Matters

Why does it matter?

Aviat Networks' Environmental, Health and Safety (EHS) policy is to comply with international, federal, provincial, state and local EHS laws and regulations, as well as to prevent occupational illnesses and injuries, conserve natural resources, minimize waste and limit environmental impacts.

The first part of this policy affirms the Company's absolute commitment to legal compliance. The second, preventing illnesses and injuries, conserving resources and minimizing waste, contributes to improving the Company's efficiency and profitability while reducing or eliminating environmental impacts and protecting employee health and safety.

Aviat Networks is committed to protecting the health and safety of its employees, visitors and the public. It is Aviat Networks' policy that all of its facilities and products comply with all national, state, and local health and safety laws and with the laws and regulations of the countries in which the Company operates. Aviat Networks has established programs, procedures, internal controls and training to meet or exceed these requirements.

What does it mean for me?

- To ensure compliance with the EHS Policy by adhering to and observing the rules embedded therein.
- To always behave in accordance with our Health and Safety Essentials.
- To Immediately report any injury or ill health that is related to our work to preventing illnesses and injuries, conserving resources and minimizing waste,
- To contribute to improving the Company's efficiency and profitability while reducing or eliminating environmental impacts and protecting employee health and safety.

4. Interaction with Competitors

Why does it matter?

Aviat Networks is a vigorous competitor in the marketplace. However, Aviat Networks will not hire competitors' employees for the purpose of obtaining confidential information, urge competitors' personnel, customers, or suppliers to disclose confidential information, or seek such information from competitors' employees subsequently hired by the Company.

What does it mean for me?

Ensure you engage with our suppliers, customers and competitors lawfully and in a way that reflects our values. Do not engage in illegal or improper acts to acquire a competitor's trade secrets, customer lists, and information about its facilities, technical developments or operations.

5. Supplier/Vendor Relationships

Why does it matter?

When purchasing goods and services in the conduct of its business, Aviat Networks will select suppliers based on ability, performance and value, irrespective of their political affiliations or positions on public policy issues. Procurement decisions ought to reflect the best judgment of the Aviat Networks employee regarding technology, quality, responsiveness, as well as cost of the prospective supplier.

Ethical Conduct

What does it mean for me?

Those acting on behalf of Aviat Networks and/or involved with vendors shall refrain from any business or professional activities that would create a conflict between personal or vendor interests and the interests of the Company (see also Section 2D - Conflicts of Interest.). Suppliers are expected to obey all laws in the country of manufacture or sale of products purchased by the Company.

6. The Use of Consultants

Why does it matter?

Consultants and agents retained by the Company must adhere to the principles of the Aviat Networks Code of Conduct in the course of their work on behalf of the Company.

What does it mean for me?

Before entering into a consulting relationship, employees and the Company must ensure that a) no material conflict of interest exists; b) the consultant is genuinely qualified for the proposed work; c) the compensation is reasonable, and d) there is a written agreement outlining the work to be performed if the Company's financial commitment is greater than USD $5,000 (or equivalent) or the services are material to the business of Aviat Networks and e) the Consultant commits, in writing, that it along with its employees and agents will also comply with the Code of Conduct.

7. Media Contact

Why does it matter?

News media contact, responses and public discussion of the business and financial status or outlook of Aviat Networks should only be made by the Chief Executive Officer ("CEO"), Chief Financial Officer who is our Principal Financial Officer and Principal Accounting Officer ("CFO"), our investor relations consultants or our designated investor relations personnel. Inquiries from the press, including trade press, regarding new products, technology, services, sales conferences, trade shows or local issues should be directed to the Vice President of Marketing or a designated Company spokesperson.

What does it mean for me?

If reporters question you, you should immediately refer them to one of these above-mentioned officers. To protect Aviat Networks, as well as yourself, assume that all Company information is confidential unless you have seen it in a written public announcement.

Ethical Conduct

8. International Presence

Why does it matter?

Because Aviat Networks is a global company and does business in numerous countries, all employees, agents, and partners are required to be aware of and comply with the United States Foreign Corrupt Practices Act of 1977 (“FCPA”), as well as other national and international laws and conventions. For more detail, see the Company’s Anti-Bribery Anti-Corruption Policy.

What does it mean for me?

Employees must ensure compliance with the FCPA and other anti-bribery, anti-corruption laws and regulations. Employees must complete all relevant online training about anti-bribery and anti-corruption. More importantly employees must ensure that partners, resellers and agents abide by anti-bribery, anti-corruption laws and avoid any situation which may result in the Company being fine for non-compliance with the FCPA or other anti-bribery, anti-corruption laws and regulations.

9. Export Laws

Why does it matter?

a.) Export Control Regulations

Aviat Networks conducts its international business in compliance with U.S. Export laws and regulations and those of the countries in which it does business. U.S. law, for example, prohibits the export of certain commercial products, strategic goods, defense articles and their related technologies, and the furnishing of defense services, unless licensed by the appropriate federal agency – either the Department of Commerce or the Department of State. The same laws and regulations may apply to the re-export of goods and services from another country.

In the export of certain defense articles, technical data, or the furnishing of defense services, prior approval is needed from the U.S. Department of State, pursuant to the Arms Export Control Act and the International Traffic in Arms Regulations. These laws also apply to international subsidiaries of Aviat Networks.

b.) Contacts with Foreign Nationals

An export can occur anywhere when equipment or technical data is released or made available to a foreign person, whether within the U.S. or abroad. Exports of technical data can take place in a variety of ways, including document shipments, proposals to foreign customers; technical publications and presentations; demonstrations and promotional literature; trade and air shows and plant tours. Exports can take place in person-to-person conversations, letter, telexes, facsimiles, technical meetings, email, providing of assistance, and training to foreign persons via the Internet.

Ethical Conduct

What does it mean for me?

c.) Foreign Business Travel

Aviat Networks employees traveling internationally need to fully understand applicable export requirements before departure. Hand-carrying equipment and technical data overseas is generally discouraged. However, if a hand-carry cannot be avoided, contact your Export Control Manager to determine what export documentation may be needed. This requirement also applies to laptop computers.

Employees doing business internationally should become familiar with the particular business customs and practices of the countries in which we do business. What may be acceptable in the U.S. may not be appropriate in another country.

d.) Foreign Visitor

Visits by foreign persons to Aviat Networks facilities where U.S. export-controlled items or technical data is present are strictly regulated and must be monitored and controlled. Aviat Networks employees who are not U.S. citizens visiting the U.S. are generally subject to the same export controls as non-Aviat Networks persons, as are representatives of international organizations and foreign Governments, even though they may be a U.S. citizen.

e.) International Boycotts

It may be illegal to enter into agreements with representatives of another country or to provide information that could be construed as furthering boycotts of third countries or restricting international trade practices. The U.S. Government may impose criminal or civil penalties on U.S. companies, their international subsidiaries and employees for violating U.S. boycott laws.

Illegal boycott language can find its way into many different transaction documents, including letters of credit, purchase orders, invoices and shipping receipts, to name a few. Because the mere receipt of a request to engage in illegal boycott activity may require a report to the U.S. Government, all employees must immediately preserve any documents containing such language and consult the Legal Department.

Ethical Conduct

10. Political Contributions

Why does it matter?

Except as approved in advance by the Chief Executive Officer or Chief Financial Officer, no political contribution shall be made by or on behalf of the Company. This includes contributions of Company funds or other assets, the use of Company facilities in support of a candidate or political measure, any contributions made through trade associations, encouraging individual employees to make any such contribution out of their own funds and reimbursing an employee for any contribution.

What does it mean for me?

Individual employees are free to make personal contributions as they see fit. In addition, employee participation in the political process must be carried out on the employee's own time and at the employee's own expense.

Any gift or benefit provided to any recipient must be for official purposes and be linked to a strategy of Aviat Networks.

Ethical Conduct

11. Gifts, Gratuities & Other Payments

Why does it matter?

Aviat Networks believes that our interests are best served when the acceptance of a gift is based solely on its merits. Personal gifts offered to our employees by companies or our employees offering personal gifts to our customers doing business with us could, even if innocently given have the following adverse consequences: (1) it could be motivated by the desire for undue favoritism in future dealings; (2) it could be interpreted to influence, especially when there is no other likely reason for the gift.

What does it mean for me?

Aviat Networks' employees, their respective family members, and our third-party agents may not give, offer, or accept any gift, entertainment, travel or other business courtesies that are intended or may be perceived as an attempt to improperly influence the business relationships between Aviat Networks and any current or prospective supplier, customer or other party doing business with the Company. Gifts and gratuities shall not be given or received except of nominal value. Where local custom is so strong that to refuse a gift, or to not reciprocate with a gift, would be considered an insult, a gift can be received or given if permitted by local law and only upon proper approval of the department manager or functional vice president in accordance with the Aviat Networks Gifts & Hospitality Policy.

Any gift or benefit (including hospitality) of any value to a government employee must have prior written authorization from the Human Resources or Legal Department. Any gift or benefit provided to any recipient must be for official purposes and be linked to a strategy of Aviat Networks.

Any gift or benefit received or value to a government employee must be recorded in a gift registry by the Legal Department.

Aviat Networks' employees are not authorized to pay or receive, directly or indirectly, any bribe, kickback or other similar unlawful payment to or from any public official, or government, or other individual, whether foreign or domestic, to secure any concession, contract or other favorable treatment for Aviat Networks and its subsidiaries or the employee. This prohibition extends to the payment or receipt of money or anything else of substantial value when the employee has reason to believe that some part of the payment or "fee" will be used for a bribe, kickback or other illegal activity. Any corrupt payment or attempt at making a bribe or other conflict of interest will not be tolerated and may lead to disciplinary action, up to including termination. For more detail and guidance, see the Company's Gifts and Hospitality Policy and Anti-Bribery Anti-Corruption Policy.

Great people have great values and great ethics.

—JEFFREY GITOMER

Ethical Conduct

12. Product Integrity

Why does it matter?

All products shall be manufactured in strict compliance with company-approved assembly instructions and manufacturing processes. Products will be tested in accordance with company-approved and/or contractually required test procedures. Factual results of all tests shall be recorded and documented as required.

What does it mean for me?

The individual conducting such test(s) shall be personally responsible for the proper conduct of the test(s) and the authenticity of the data recorded.

13. Books, Records, & Information Management

Why does it matter?

Aviat Networks requires full compliance with the spirit and letter of applicable laws and regulations requiring books of account and records be accurately maintained and fully disclose the nature of transactions reflected in them.

What does it mean for me?

Accordingly, employees are reminded of the following record-keeping requirements:

- All books, records and accounts must be kept in reasonable detail and must accurately and fairly reflect all transactions, acquisitions, and dispositions of the Company's assets.

- All disbursements of funds and all receipts must be properly and promptly recorded.
- No undisclosed or unrecorded fund may be established for any purposes.
- False or artificial entries must never be made in any of the books or records of the Company, or in any public record for any reason, nor should permanent entries in the Company's records be altered in any way.
- A system of internal accounting controls shall be maintained which is sufficient to provide reasonable assurances that transactions:
 1. Are executed in accordance with management's general or specific authorization.
 2. Are recorded as necessary a) to permit preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles or any other criteria applicable to such statement, and b) to maintain accountability for assets.
 3. Access to assets is permitted only in accordance with management's general or specific authorization.

Ethical Conduct

We should all be aware that penalties for violating the laws and regulations in this area could be severe for the Company and the employees involved. Additional information dealing with this subject is contained in published Corporate and financial policies.

14. Time and Labor Records

Why does it matter?

Accurate time records ensure employees are paid correctly for the hours worked, including overtime, which helps maintain trust and satisfaction. More importantly accurate time records help the Company to comply with relevant labor laws and regulations regarding wages, overtime, and working hours.

What does it mean for me?

All employees required to prepare and submit job/time cards must do so in a complete, accurate and timely manner.

The employee's signature on a job or time card is a personal representation that the job or time card accurately reflects the number of hours worked on the specified project or job.

The supervisor's signature is a representation that the job or time card has been reviewed. Where appropriate, electronic completion and approval of job or time cards is acceptable.

15. Retention of Records

Why does it matter?

Legal and regulatory practice requires the retention of certain records for various periods of time, particularly those relating to taxes, personnel, health and safety, environmental matters, contracts and corporate structure. In accordance with the Company's record retention policy, disposal or destruction of Aviat Networks' records and files of this nature is not discretionary with any employee, including the originator of such records. In addition, when litigation or a government investigation or audit is pending or imminent, relevant records must not be destroyed until the matter is closed. Destruction of records to avoid disclosure in a legal proceeding may constitute a criminal offense.

Questions on record retention are covered in our record and retention policy and should be directed to the Legal Department, particularly if any litigation, investigation or administrative action involving the Company or any of its officers, suppliers, or customers is pending.

Ethical Conduct

What does it mean for me?

Employees must ensure they do not behave and act in violation of the Company's record retention policy to avoid any potential and future liability for the Company.

16. The Internet, Voicemail, Electronic Mail & Computers

Why does it matter?

Use of the Internet, voicemail, electronic mail and computers belonging to the Company ("Company Assets") requires responsible judgment, supervisory discretion and compliance with applicable laws and regulations. Users must be aware of information technology, security and other privacy concerns, including the use of social media. Users must also be aware of and follow management policies for the Internet, voicemail, electronic mail and computer usage. A full description of such policies can be found in Aviat Networks' policies and procedures.

What does it mean for me?

Individuals are not guaranteed privacy while using Company's Assets and should not expect it. To the extent that employees wish their private activities to remain private, they should avoid using Company Assets, including but not limited to, equipment, voicemail, electronic mail, Internet connection(s) or computers for such activities. Furthermore, employees should never use Company's Assets to create, access, store, print, solicit or send any materials that are harassing, threatening, abusive, sexually explicit or otherwise offensive or inappropriate.

C. FULL, FAIR, ACCURATE, TIMELY AND UNDERSTANDABLE DISCLOSURE

Why does it matter?

It is of paramount importance to the Company that all disclosure in reports and documents that the Company files with, or submits to, the United States Securities Exchange Commission (SEC), and in other public communications made by the Company are full, fair, accurate, timely and understandable. You must take all steps available to assist the Company in these responsibilities consistent with your role within the Company. In particular, you are required to provide prompt and accurate answers to all inquiries made to you in connection with the Company's preparation of its public reports and disclosure. Any attempt to enter inaccurate or fraudulent information into the Company's accounting system will not be tolerated and will result in disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment.

What does it mean for me?

If an employee has information leading him or her to believe that there are accounting improprieties or violations or weaknesses of internal financial controls, that financial data, or information created for the purpose of generating financial statements, are materially misleading, or are created to fraudulently influence, coerce, manipulate, or mislead any independent accountant engaged in the performance of an audit of the Company's financial statements, or that the Company has violated or is about to violate any securities laws, or if any employee receives a complaint or allegation of any of the foregoing, he or she must report it pursuant to the procedures stated in Appendix A: Financial Code of Ethics.

D. CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

Why does it matter?

Employees of Aviat Networks have the right to engage in outside personal, financial and business transactions or other activities that do not interfere with the performance of their duties for the Company or that could act against the interests of Aviat Networks. Activities should not involve the misuse of Company Assets, property, facilities, influence or other resources.

What does it mean for me?

Employees of Aviat Networks shall not:

- Engage in any activity through which such employee stands to benefit personally from any sale or purchase of goods and services by the Company. This provision does not apply to benefits arising out of an employee's employment.

Ethics is knowing the difference between what you have a right to do and what is right to do. —POTTER STEWART

Ethical Conduct

F. ANTITRUST LAWS/ANTI-COMPETITIVE PRACTICES

Why does it matter?

Aviat Networks will fully comply with the applicable antitrust or competition laws in all jurisdictions in which it conducts business. Anti-trust laws are complex. Their premise is that the economy and public will benefit most if businesses compete vigorously, free from unreasonable restraints. Their application is heavily dependent on the particular facts about a company's products, markets and activities. Generally, antitrust laws prohibit combinations of entities from acting together for the purpose or effect of controlling prices or reducing competition. Among the types of activities which are prohibited are:

1. Conspiracies and understandings between Aviat Networks and its competitors regarding prices, bids, costs, profit margins, wages, compensation information, customers, territories and other competitive matters. Precautions should be taken to avoid giving even the appearance of such conspiracies or understandings in industry meetings, discussions, correspondence and other communications with competitors.
2. Agreements or understandings with competitors or customers not to deal with a particular customer or supplier.
3. Distributor arrangements, which unduly limit selection or pricing available to their customers or to ultimate consumers of our products and services. All resale pricing agreements, group boycotts, and product tying arrangements are prohibited.

4. Use of financial or other strengths of Aviat Networks to gain an unfair advantage in competitive businesses.

Examples include but are not limited to:

- Deception
- Intimidation
- Disparagement
- Bribery
- Misappropriation of trade secrets

In addition to being inconsistent with the Aviat Networks standards of business practice, violations of antitrust laws can result in lawsuits and substantial civil and criminal penalties, including imprisonment of the responsible employees. Decisions and transactions that raise antitrust issues should be reviewed for compliance by the Corporate Legal Department.

Ethical Conduct

G. INSIDER TRADING AND DUTY TO MAINTAIN CONFIDENTIALITY OF COMPANY-SENSITIVE AND PROPRIETARY INFORMATION

Why does it matter?

As an employee, you may have access to both: (a) material nonpublic information about Aviat Networks or about companies with which Aviat Networks does business, including customers and suppliers; and (b) other information that while not material, may nonetheless be sensitive, confidential and/or proprietary information, which includes trade secrets, competition-sensitive data, computer programs, and other technical business and financial information regarding the affairs and business of Aviat Networks, employee records, personnel and medical records and other records, files and information. This information must be kept confidential and used solely for legitimate Aviat Networks business purposes. Employees are prohibited from (i) disclosing such information to any third person except to the extent required by their duties, whether the employee receives any consideration or benefit for such disclosure, and (ii) using such material, nonpublic information or other sensitive or confidential information for personal gain or advantage.

What does it mean for me?

Employees are also required to fully comply with securities laws governing transactions in Aviat Networks securities or the securities of any company with which Aviat Networks does business, as well as Aviat Networks' policies relating to insider transactions. These laws provide substantial civil and/or criminal penalties for individuals who fail to comply. Employees who are aware of material nonpublic information relating to Aviat Networks or companies with which Aviat Networks does business may not buy or sell stock, bonds, options or other derivatives of Aviat Networks or such other companies or pass that information on to others. Both material nonpublic and other sensitive or proprietary information about Aviat Networks should be kept strictly confidential and all reasonable efforts should be undertaken to prevent unauthorized disclosure of, or access to, this information. Employees in possession of such material information may not trade in Aviat Networks securities until such material nonpublic information has been disclosed broadly to the marketplace and the public has had time to fully absorb the information (generally 48 hours following a press release or public filing).

Material information is any information that a reasonable investor would likely consider important in deciding to buy, hold, or sell securities. While it is not possible to list all types of information that might be "material", information related to the following subjects is often regarded as material:

Ethical Conduct

- Financial information, including sales, orders or income results;
- Financial projections, forecasts or budgets;
- Mergers, tender offers or acquisitions of other companies or major purchases or sales or assets;
- Awards or cancellation of major contracts;
- The gain or loss of a significant customer or supplier;
- Changes in senior management;
- A change in dividend policy, the declaration of a stock split, stock repurchases or an offering of additional securities;
- Major litigation or government investigations or the threat thereof;
- Write-downs or restructuring charges; and
- Major transactions or negotiations with other companies, regarding joint ventures, alliances or licensing agreements.

In addition to the prohibition on trading while aware of material nonpublic information, a) all Directors, officers and director level and above employee, and b) all other employees who are aware of or have access to material inside financial information relating to quarterly or annual financial results of Aviat Networks or its divisions or business units are also prohibited from directly or indirectly trading in Aviat Networks securities during the period commencing 14 calendar days prior to the end of a financial quarter and ending at the close of market on the second full business day following the date of public disclosure of the financial results for that fiscal quarter (the “Restricted Trading Period”). Directors and executive officers are also prohibited from undertaking short sales of Aviat Networks securities or undertaking any transaction in Aviat Networks puts, calls, or other derivative securities on an exchange or in any other organized market.

If you are planning to buy or sell Aviat Networks securities and believe you may be in possession of material information, or you are unsure whether restrictions apply to you, consult with Aviat Networks’ General Counsel, or the individual who is also designated as the Insider Trading Compliance Officer, before entering into any transaction and review the Company's Insider Trading Compliance Program and Policy.

H. HEALTH AND SAFETY

Why does it matter?

Safety is a Company value and must be our top priority. There is no job we do or service we perform that is so urgent we cannot take the time to recognize hazards, and use the proper tools, equipment, and processes to do the work safely.

It is the goal of Aviat Networks to provide a safe, clean, neat, orderly and healthful workplace for employees. Aviat Networks will act in such a way that ensures:

- We comply with all safety and health laws;
- We maintain each facility and all equipment in a safe condition;
- We encourage the safety and health of our employees through the activities of a safety program; and
- Our employees, supervisors, and managers have ownership, responsibility, and the ability to be proactive in safety, to maintain a safe and healthful workplace, and to take appropriate action to prevent accident and injury.

Safety is a Company value and must be our top priority.

What does it mean for me?

All employees and consultants are expected to constructively participate in Aviat Networks' safety activities on-site, to maintain an awareness of worksite hazards, to maintain the worksite and the facility in a safe condition, to understand and strictly comply with all safety rules and safe work practices, and to perform each task safely. Employees are expected to resolve safety concerns that are within their control, and to bring concerns not in their control up to management for resolution before proceeding with any work in question.

If you have any questions about safe work practices or rules, consult your supervisor, manager, local Safety Committee Representative, Legal Department, or Human Resources.

Ethical Conduct

I. INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

Why does it matter?

In addition to Aviat Networks' tangible assets, Aviat Networks' employees use a great variety of intangible intellectual property. Intellectual property refers to proprietary information, ideas, writings, designs, artworks, processes, and the like.

Common types of intellectual property used by Aviat Networks' employees include:

- Product designs

- Business plans and strategies
- Employee data
- Manufacturing processes and improvements
- Computer software
- Trade names and logos
- Research

Intellectual property may be part of:

- Electronic mail and data

Ethical Conduct

1. Intellectual Property of Aviat Networks

Much of the intellectual property used by Aviat Networks' employees is owned by Aviat Networks. This property is a Company asset.

What does it mean for me?

Employees must take appropriate steps to protect it. Employees who use or have access to confidential Aviat Networks information and trade secrets must not disclose that information or those secrets to anyone outside the Company, unless required as part of a business transaction. Confidential information and trade secrets should not be shared with others inside the Company unless the information is needed for the others to properly do their jobs.

In the event it becomes necessary to disclose intellectual property as part of a business transaction, all employees are required to inform the parties that the information being disclosed is confidential and is provided to them on the basis they maintain the confidentiality of the information. In certain cases, a signed non-disclosure agreement ("NDA") may be required prior to discussion or presentation of confidential information to third parties. Prior to disclosing confidential information, employees should consult with their supervisor, manager, or the Legal Department to determine whether an NDA is required.

Confidential information should never be used for an employee's personal benefit or for the profit or benefit of persons outside of Aviat Networks without the express written approval of management.

Your obligation to protect the intellectual property of Aviat Networks will not end when you leave our Company. First, when you leave Aviat Networks, you must return all Aviat Networks' correspondence, notes, reports, and other documents, whether written, electronic or otherwise, in your possession. Second, after you leave, you must continue to protect Aviat Networks' confidential information and trade secrets until they either become publicly available or until Aviat Networks determines they no longer require protection.

2. Intellectual Property of Others

Some of the intellectual property used by Aviat Networks is owned by others. This property may be subject to one or more of a variety of legal protections which must be respected. Those legal protections include federal laws on copyright, trademarks and patents, as well as state trade secret laws and Aviat Networks' contractual obligations.

Why does it matter?

Often, the fact that the property is protected will be obvious.

Ethical Conduct

For example, copyrighted writings usually bear the © symbol, protected trademarks are marked with the ® symbol, and machines using patented processes will bear a patent number or a reference to patents pending. Employees who use intellectual property created by others must be careful to limit themselves to permitted uses only. Unless permission is clearly not required, the protected intellectual property of others must be used only with permission of the owner.

What does it mean for me?

Employees who have a question about proper use of intellectual property should, for their own protection, as well as the Company's, consult the Legal Department.

3. Computer Software

Why does it matter?

The Company has invested substantial amounts of money in its software products and tools.

Copyright laws help protect this investment. We expect other companies to honor our copyrights and we do the same for other software developers and companies.

What does it mean for me?

You are responsible for complying with the copyrights for software installed on your desktop computer, laptop computer, phone or network computer storage areas or other devices under your control. Under no circumstances may you copy, install or otherwise use software in a manner that violates the license agreement for that software or the copyright laws. These restrictions apply to software developed or licensed by Aviat Networks, as well as to software licensed by third parties.

Your Personal Commitment to Aviat Networks

Your Personal Commitment to Aviat Networks

A fundamental obligation of all employees is to perform their responsibilities efficiently, courteously, openly, honestly, and with integrity. Internal cooperation and goodwill build the foundation for external relations.

A. DRUG AND ALCOHOL POLICY

Why does it matter?

Aviat Networks is committed to maintaining a drug-free workplace and a work force that is unimpaired by drugs, including alcohol.

Further, the unlawful manufacturing, distribution, possession or use of a controlled substance on company premises or while conducting company business is absolutely prohibited.

A fundamental obligation of all employees is to perform their responsibilities efficiently, courteously, openly, honestly, and with integrity.

The Company recognizes that drug or alcohol abuse or dependency can affect an employee's job performance and/or health. Employees desiring confidential assistance with alcohol or drug dependency problems are encouraged to contact the Employee Assistance Program through their local Human Resources Department.

What does it mean for me?

Any employee unlawfully possessing, distributing, selling or under the influence of drugs on Company property or while conducting Company business will be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including termination. Any employee under the influence of alcohol on Company property or while conducting Company business, such that his/her ability to perform the necessary duties of the job is impaired, shall be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including termination. Supervisors and managers are responsible for monitoring their areas of responsibility and taking action in any situation involving alcohol or drug possession, sale, or usage on Company property.

Your Personal Commitment to Aviat Networks

Under the Company's Drug-Free Workplace program, employees may be requested to submit to a urine and/or blood test if:

- they appear unfit for duty and the Company has a reasonable suspicion that drugs and/or alcohol are causing the condition; or
- the Company believes that drugs and/or alcohol may have caused an accident.

While an employee will not be required to consent to a urine and/or blood test, refusal to provide such consent does not restrict the Company from commencing disciplinary action, up to and including termination, if the Company has a reasonable suspicion that drugs and/or alcohol are causing an employee to appear unfit for duty, or may have caused an accident at work.

As mandated by the United States Drug-Free Workplace Act of 1988, all US employees must report any conviction under a criminal drug statute for violations occurring on or off Company premises while conducting Company business. A report must be made to your Human Resources Department within five (5) days following a conviction.

B. EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

Why does it matter?

Each employee will not unlawfully discriminate against another person in any employment decisions. Furthermore, each employee must ensure adherence to the spirit and the intent of laws prohibiting discrimination and implement these laws in all our working relationships.

C. HARASSMENT

Why does it matter?

Aviat Networks prohibits the harassment of any of our employees. Ethnic slurs, racial epithets (names), and derogatory jokes are considered harassment. Harassment also includes unwelcome requests for sexual favors or other conduct of a sexual nature when:

1. Such requests are made part of the terms and conditions of employment or form the basis for an employment decision, or
2. The requests and/or conduct unreasonably interfere with an individual's work performance or creates a hostile or offensive working environment.

Sexual harassment may include explicit sexual propositions, sexual innuendoes, suggestive comments, sexually-oriented "jokes" or "teasing," foul or obscene language, displays of sexually provocative items or printed material, and physical conduct.

This policy pertains to everyone employed by the Company and all of our contractors, visitors, customers and suppliers.

What does it mean for me?

Employees violating this policy will be subject to disciplinary action up to and including termination. If you believe you have been the victim of sexual harassment or any other type of harassment from fellow employees, contractors, visitors, customers and suppliers, you should immediately report the matter to your supervisor or Human Resources. Retaliation or reprisal toward any party involved in reporting harassment is prohibited and will result in disciplinary action up to and including termination of employment.

The Human Resources Department will promptly investigate all reports of harassment. The confidentiality and privacy of our employees will be respected during the investigation. To ensure that the harassment stops, we will take corrective action, up to and including termination of employment of the offender.

Why does it matter?

It is the goal of Aviat Networks to provide a safe and secure working environment for its employees that is free of violence or potential threats. Workplace violence includes, but is not limited to:

- Shoving, pushing, grabbing and all forms of nonconsensual physical contact;
- Bringing dangerous tools, firearms or weapons into the workplace (this excludes company-issued tools and equipment necessary to do your job);
- Acts, gestures or threats of reprisal for another's compliance with this policy; or
- Threats or any other statement or conduct that would cause a reasonable person to believe violence is imminent or may occur.

What does it mean for me?

If an employee is confronted with workplace violence, or public protest, the employee should avoid confrontation, immediately retreat to a location of safety and report the incident to his/her manager or Human Resources. Except when necessary for self-defense, deviation from these recommended actions will not be tolerated.

Employees who are the recipients or observers of workplace violence should contact their supervisor, Human Resources or any member of management. In cases where immediate law enforcement assistance is needed, the employee should contact law enforcement, then his/her supervisor, Human Resources or a member of management.

Reports of workplace violence will be investigated as quickly as possible. Information reported or discovered in the investigation, as well as the resolution, will be kept as confidential as possible.

Your Personal Commitment to Aviat Networks

Substantiated acts of workplace violence will be met with appropriate corrective action, up to and including discharge. E. REMOTE WORK

Why does it matter?

Aviat Networks is committed to ensuring the highest performance of its employees by providing some positions with the ability to work remotely and not in an Aviat-managed facility.

What does it mean for me?

Employees working remotely are expected to maintain regular work hours as agreed upon with their manager.

Employees should be accessible during agreed-upon work hours via established communication channels (e.g., email, instant messaging, video calls). Regular team meetings and one-on-one check-ins should be scheduled to ensure alignment and support.

Employees are responsible for meeting their performance goals and deadlines while working remotely. It is essential to manage time effectively and minimize distractions during work hours.

Employees are encouraged to create a dedicated workspace that is conducive to productivity, free from significant distractions and protects Aviat Networks' confidential and proprietary information.

Employees are encouraged to establish boundaries between work and personal life. Regular breaks and time off should be taken to maintain their well-being.

among our employees, customers, and stakeholders. As a global organization, we are committed to adhering to all data privacy laws worldwide, including the EU General Data Protection Regulation.

What does it mean for me?

Keep all data secure and do not give anyone access to personnel information without proper authorization based on a business-related need. Treat third-party data with the same care you treat Aviat Network's information and respect our third parties' privacy policies and information security requirements.

Know and comply with all data protection laws that affect the acquisition, maintenance and use of personal data, and uphold our policies and procedures for data protection and privacy wherever Aviat does business.
